Press statement - 26 February 2013

Name change and logo refresh for psychiatrists

The professional body for psychiatrists in Ireland has changed its name to 'College of Psychiatrists of Ireland', effective immediately. Following a motion at the College of Psychiatry of Ireland AGM last year (2012) and a subsequent ballot to members of the College the decision was taken to change the name from January 2013.

The design of the College logo has been changed and refreshed to accommodate the new name. The new contemporary format is more suitable for digital mediums in recognition of the increased popularity and use of mobile devices, notebooks, tablets and so on to access information electronically and on line.

Note for editors:

There are two versions of the refreshed logo, one for digital use and one for print use - see attached.
